ROAMS ABOUT IN SEARCH OF WIFE

Ora Clevenger's Better Half Has Left
For Parts Unknown—Was Employed at Carr Home.

CHILD IS CRITICALLY ILL

Husband Came From Home in Franklin County to Get Her to Return.

Ora Clevenger has lost his wife. She is not such a dainty and miniature matron that she could be lost in a crowd somewhere or hidden in the recesses of a down-town building, for she weighs a good two hundred pounds. All day yesterday and today Ora tramped the streets of Rushville, sad in heart, in a fruitless search for the wife of his bosom. He learned that she had been in certain places some time since, but such information only served to reopen the wounds of his aching heart.

Clevenger was formerly the "Slop King" of Rushville; but when the ordinance of removing all hogs from the city limits was enforced, Ora packed his kit and boggle, and with five or six healthy children and a wife who is a comfort and a willing soul, removed to the hills of Franklin county to try his fortunes in that locale, where an unexploited country and opportunities lay before him, wild, luxurious and rangey lands in the very lap of nature.

All was well for a while. Never did they have better success with their pigs and the chickens began to multiply and come forth in great numbers as if under the wand of a magician. None of "their own raising" was for sale and having so many children, scarcely a day passed but what they needed ready cash. It was out of the question for Clevenger to contemplate going out to earn a little coin of the realm, as duties on their little farm required all his attention. However, the brave wife was equal to the emergency, and like every mother that ever lived in the world, was willing to go out and make the sacrifice. Accordingly she returned to Rushville, where she had friends. After a search, she found employment, temporary as a domestic in the home of Owen L. Carr. She worked there a short time and left. And it is as if the earth opened and swallowed her. No one seems to have seen her after she left the Carr home.

There is a most touching and pathetic chapter to the story. It concerns the health of one of their children. Down in their humble cot in Franklin county, one of their off-springs lies ill, nigh unto death, suffering an attack of pneumonia. That is what brought the father here and that is how he found his wife was missing. The child longs for and needs the care, the tender touches and the soft spoken words of the mother. The husband is not only deeply grieved, but worried almost to a point of insanity since he cannot find his wife. Neighboring newspapers are kindly asked to make mention of the woman's disappearance. It is not thought that she has eloped with another, or anything of that sort, but she is probably working and saving every penny possible in some adjoining city.

HEARTS MADE GLAD.

Mulno & Guffin say that the St. Patrick souvenir hats given away yesterday was the greatest event with them since they opened their store, ten years ago. They gave away two gross of the hats in three hours and could have used three times as many.

B. F. Carroll, governor of Iowa, in a personal letter to Frank C. Travers, of Bloomfield, Iowa, who will address the Men's Big Meeting at the St. Paul's M. E. church Sunday afternoon, says of his lecture on "The Liberator":

"I count myself highly favored in having been permitted to listen to your splendid lecture entitled 'The Liberator' on Saturday evening last.

"I assure you that it was a source of very great pleasure to me and that I was greatly entertained and edified. I trust that you will not regard it as flattering when I say to you that it is one of the most able lectures that I have ever heard. delivered. Its moral tone and elevating influence are of a very high character.

"I trust you will have many opportunities to deliver this lecture, as it is worthy of our best thinking people."

MAKE A FIGHT FOR TRIBBEY'S FATE BETTER SERVICE IN HANDS OF JURY

Committee of Mays and Rushville Citizens Before Railroad Commission Yesterday.

WANT TWO TRAINS EACH DAY MRS. TRIBBEY IN COURT TODAY

Present Schedule is Very Unsatisfactory—Were Promised Immediate Improvement.

A committee from Mays and vicinity, composed of Bert Benner, C. S. Harter, Lester Henry, J. L. Atkins, Charles Stewart, George Colter, Frank Martin, O. A. J. Hall and James Custer, accompanied by Will M. Bliss, Ab Denning, R. L. Tompkins and S. L. Trabue, of this city, were before the Railway Commission at Indianapolis yesterday in the interest of better service on the L. E. & W. railway, between this city and New Castle. Mr. Trabue was the attorney for the committee. The railway company was also represented at the meeting.

The present schedule on the branch line is very unsatisfactory, especially to the people of Mays and its neighborhood. The only reason given by the company for the present arrangement is that the crew of the branch line is needed for switching purposes on the main line at New Castle during the day. The committee asked for two trains each way daily, but will be satisfied with one each way, provided it is run on schedule time and at a different hour in the day.

The different members were carefully questioned by the commission in regard to the present service and needs for its improvement. The representatives of the railway company expressed a desire to accommodate its patrons and to furnish a satisfactory schedule if this could be done without interfering with the company's plans at the northern terminus. The committee returned home very hopeful of a speedy change from the present schedule. They are not expecting two daily trains each way, but think it very probable that the trains will be run to New Castle early in the morning and back to this city in the evening.

AGED WOMAN GOES TO GREAT BEYOND

Mrs. Nancy Pollitt Succumbs After Long Illness—Survived by Six Children.

FUNERAL SERVICES SATURDAY

Mrs. Nancy Pollitt, 85 years of age, died at her home in Gwynneville Thursday morning of tuberculosis. Mrs. Pollitt was one of the oldest settlers in Shelby county, where she had lived the greater part of her life. She had been ill with consumption for several years.

The deceased is survived by six children and several grandchildren. The funeral services will be conducted from the Gwynneville Christian church by the pastor Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The remains will be buried in the Morris-ton cemetery.

On cross examination Mr. Ball said in answer to a question by Titsworth that he had taken the Keeley cure about twelve years ago.

THE WEATHER

Rain tonight or Saturday. Colder.

Ball was asked by the defense if he had not heard a telephone communication one night prior to the whitecapping in which Perry Collins in talking to some one had proposed a mob to handle Tribbey. The witness was not allowed to answer.

Mr. Ball was the most interesting witness of the morning.

Quite a number of witnesses were introduced in Tribbey's behalf to show that his reputation for morality, truth and veracity is good. All the witnesses were not asked as to his reputation for morality.

Mr. Richardson, proprietor of an elevator at Arlington, was one, others were Mr. Reeves, 75 years old; William Stanley, a bachelor 70 years old, and the owner of 400 good Rush county acres; Eli Collins, ex-trustee, J. H. Allender, seventy years old and seven feet tall; Mr. Allender, by the way, was one of the men who attended the celebration dinner at McFatridge's, known as the whitecap dinner; Harry Sheppard; J. L. Darling, cashier of the Arlington bank, had never heard Tribbey's reputation for truth and veracity questioned; the State brought out on cross examination that Tribbey is a depositor in Darling's bank.

There was a big crowd in the court room all day and no doubt the crowd tomorrow to hear the arguments will be large.

EVERY MEMBER IS ARTIST OF ABILITY

Wabash College Glee and Mandolin Club Made a Distinct Hit at Lafayette.

ARE HERE SATURDAY EVENING

The Purdue Exponent of March 7 says in part of the Wabash College Glee and Mandolin Club that will appear here Saturday evening at the Main Street Christian church:

"Before an audience of about 700 people in Fowler Hall last night, the Wabash Glee and Mandolin Club made one of the distinct hits of the season. It is hard to say that any one man or group of men did better work than any other, for the club as a whole gave a very creditable entertainment. However, Mr. Walter, the specialty man, Mr. Rees, the baritone soloist, Mr. Masters, the violinist rendered the most enjoyable numbers.

"For the opening number the Glee club sang the 'Song of the Alumni,' composed by a Wabash man, which called forth great applause. This was followed by 'College Medley,' composed of most of the songs commonly heard about a college campus. It was truly a mixture and enabled the club to show its versatility. The 'Teddy Bears' Picnic,' by the Mandolin club was well rendered and very taking in its way. 'Cuddle up a Little Closer,' as an encore to this number was heavily applauded."

MRS. IRVIN DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Succumbed in Lafayette Sanitarium

Thursday Afternoon at Two O'clock.

REMAINS CAME THIS EVENING

Death Came Before Her Husband Could Reach Her Bed Side.

The news of the death of Mrs. Arthur Irvin, wife of the president of the Farmers' Banking company, in a Lafayette sanitarium yesterday evening was received as a severe shock to her numerous friends and relatives in this city. Mrs. Irvin left here last week apparently in good health and was brought back this evening a corpse.

Mrs. Irvin went to Lafayette to visit her daughter, Mrs. David Kiser, who was ill and was preparing to have an operation performed. While there she was taken suddenly ill and it was thought advisable by the attending physician to have an operation performed. She was taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital in Lafayette and the operation was performed Friday. The patient seemed to be recovering when she had a slight heart attack Sunday morning. She had apparently recovered from that and her husband received word on Thursday morning that she would soon be well. Later in the morning he received a telegram to the effect that she was much worse and he left immediately, but arrived too late, about two hours after her death, which occurred about two o'clock.

Mrs. Irvin had been in poor health for a number of years, but never seriously ill. The deceased was over fifty years of age and was born and raised in Rush county. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. David Kiser of Lafayette, formerly Miss Effie Irvin of this city.

The funeral services will be conducted at the home in North Main street Saturday evening and a private burial will be held Sunday morning.

BANK CAFE CLOSED BY CITY MARSHALL

Saloon, Owned and Operated by Fred Clevenger Under License Secured by Harry Lyons.

NOW RESIDES IN INDIANAPOLIS

City Marshal Price served papers on Fred Clevenger, owner and proprietor of the Bank Cafe saloon, this morning, ordering him to close his doors. The place has been running on license procured by Harry Lyons, formerly of this city, but now of Indianapolis. Lyons had no interest in the saloon and had only obtained the privilege for Clevenger to operate under. Mayor Cowing made a trip to Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon and got a sworn statement from Lyons saying that he was a resident of Marion county. The mayor then ordered the saloon closed as Clevenger had no right to do business with a license in the name of the resident of another county other than Rush.

Rhodes, the city of the colossus, still survives, a mediaeval city in all its defensive war gear of tower and curtain and keen.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, March 19.—When he left here today for French Lick, National Committeeman Taggart had a faint hope that he had convinced his followers here that under no circumstances will he accept a nomination for mayor of Indianapolis. He spent twenty-four of the busiest hours of his life here, however, answering telephone calls and meeting Republican as well as Democratic party workers who came around to his headquarters to insist on his being a candidate. "Not on your life will I be a candidate or accept the office," was the substance of what Taggart said to all who impounded him to make the race. He was assured probably a hundred times that the Democrats would have a regular "cinch" if he would accept the nomination. During his three campaigns for mayor Taggart had a Republican as well as a Democratic organization. Many members of the former put in their demand that he should again become their leader, but he replied emphatically that he doesn't want the place. "I don't see what I could do with the job," said Taggart. "I have my business here and at French Lick, which requires all of my time. It is out of the question for me to think of being a candidate or of even accepting the office." Some of the party workers thought that Taggart was fooling them and that he would get into the running later, but his close friends said after meeting him that there is no reason to question his sincerity. He made one statement showing that he is not only not a candidate, but that he does not want any political office. It was suggested to him that he was laying his lines to run for congress from here next year against Mayor Bookwalter, who, many believe, will be the Republican nominee. "I wouldn't accept a nomination for congress," said he. "All I want is to be let alone, so that I may give my time to my business." The dearth of candidates on the Republican side, which at first was regarded as amusing, is now becoming serious with the leaders of that party. Frank D. Stalnaker, president of the Capital National bank, who was defeated for the nomination four years ago, is enjoying a large-sized boom, but he declared today that people are wasting time considering his name, as he wouldn't accept the nomination or the office. Captain William E. English, another prospective candidate on the Republican side, who is being urged to make the race, said that he will not be a candidate and would not take the nomination. Captain English says that he has no time to give to the office of mayor.

Ananias Baker of Rochester, who sprang into notoriety in Indiana four years ago by exposing on the floor of the house of representatives an alleged attempt to bribe him to vote against the Parks anti-cigarette bill, is dead at Albuquerque, N. M. He went there two weeks ago suffering from tuberculosis. His death was unexpected, as he was improving from open-air treatment when he left home. Baker was one of the quaint characters in Indiana politics. He amassed a fortune in the lumber and banking business, but it was in the political arena that he attracted attention because of his peculiar ideas. He was the only Hoosier politician who is known to have applied astrology to politics. He paid an astrologer for a tip which, he asserted, brought him his nomination and election as representative from Fulton and Cass counties. "Astrology is a guide-post," said Baker. "What are the heavens for? Who made them? The stars contain information for every man if he but knows how to read them." Baker's expose of the alleged effort of O. A. Baker of Marion to bribe him, was the climax of his political career. He startled the legislature by arising during the debate on the cigarette bill and producing an envelope containing five $20 bills which he said O. A. Baker gave him. O. A. Baker fled from the country and is still a fugitive.

The "ghost will walk" as usual at the state house after April 10, as Auditor Billheimer is preparing to make a demand on the county treasurers for advance payments April 1. He expects to obtain between $800,000 and $900,000, which will be sufficient to last until the regular payment of taxes in June. The auditor is permitted to demand advance payments under a law enacted by the recent legislature after it was shown that the state could not meet its obligations unless the county treasurers "came across" with funds ahead of time. The new law provides that the auditor may order the prosecuting attorney to proceed against a county treasurer who does not make payments of taxes on time, and that he may prosecute a treasurer who refuses to make advance payments. The law provides, however, that the auditor cannot single out counties and demand large sums from them while he lets the others alone. The amount he desires to draw must be pro-rated among the counties according to the amount of their previous settlement.

Murder in a Saloon.

Indianapolis, March 19.—Following the revival of an old quarrel, Bert Law, bartender, shot and almost instantly killed David J. Monaghan in an East Washington street saloon, last night. Law sent two bullets through the man's body. Law made no effort to escape, and was charged with murder. Law pleaded self-defense, but Coroner Blackwell says both of the bullets entered the man's back.

WOMEN APPEAL TO TAFT

Suffragists Adjourn After Starting Equal Suffrage Petition.

Logansport, Ind., March 19.—The Indiana State Women's Suffrage Society, which has been holding its first annual convention in this city, adjourned after electing officers for the coming year and selecting Indianapolis as the place of the convention next year.

Many well-known women were in attendance, including Miss Harriet Noble of Vincennes, who was the first Indiana graduate from Vassar. Mrs. Ella Stewart, wife of an Illinois state senator, was also one of the prominent speakers.

A petition will be sent to President Taft asking that he lend his aid in obtaining equal suffrage for the women of the United States, and the committee drafted resolutions and started the petition over the state for the signatures of all women interested. After the petition has been circulated throughout Indiana it will be sent to Ohio, then to Illinois, and so on until it has been the rounds of every state and territory in the country.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Anna Noland, Logansport; first vice president, Dr. Susan E. Collier, Indianapolis; second vice president, Mrs. Mitchener, Kokomo; recording secretary, Mrs. E. M. Woods, Kokomo; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bessie Hughes, Logansport; treasurer, Mrs. Martha Harvey Barnard, Indianapolis; auditors, Mrs. Jane Pond, Montpelier, and Judge Samuel Artman, Lebanon.

Cracksmen Find Empty Safe.

Newport, Ind., March 19.—An attempt at robbery was made here when burglars pried open the window of the county treasurer's office and used nitroglycerin in blowing open the safe door. There was no money in the safe. One dollar and sixty cents in a stamp box was taken. A watch chain, thought to be the property of the thieves, was found in the courthouse yard just below the window.

Died at Father's Grave.

Indianapolis, March 19.—Tillie Meyers, a young woman, was found dead on her father's grave in the Catholic cemetery, at the southern edge of the city. She had swallowed poison. Her father died about two weeks ago, and grief over his death is supposed to have caused her to take her own life.

Involuntary Manslaughter.

Huntington, Ind., March 19.—After three weeks' trial in the Huntington circuit court, John Baker, whose home is at Woodburn, Allen county, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter on the charge of murdering Marshal Columbus Croy at Woodburn in June, 1907.

Serious Hunting Accident.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 19.—Abe Moorhouse of Kouts, this county, while hunting at Kankakee, was accidentally shot in the back of the head. His companion dropped his gun, which was discharged. Moorhouse is in a serious condition.

FINAL ECHO OF THE INSURANCE SCANDAL

Jerome Asks Dismissal of Charges Against Perkins.

New York, March 19.—What is probably a final echo of the insurance scandal of three years ago was heard when District Attorney Jerome appeared before Justice Blanchard in the criminal branch of the supreme court and requested that the six indictments for forgery in the third degree found against George W. Perkins of the New York Life Insurance company be dismissed and that the same disposition be made of the six indictments filed against Charles S. Fairchild, a director of the New York Life, and Robert A. Grannis, vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance company. All these indictments were found by the grand jury in December, 1906, following the Armstrong insurance investigation and have been fought through the higher courts since then.

Mr. Jerome reviewed the transactions between the New York Life Insurance company and the Prussian government, by which securities carried by the insurance company were got rid of because the Prussian authorities threatened to exclude the company from doing business in that country while holding the securities, and out of which the charges against Perkins and Fairchild grew. The securities were transferred to the New York Securities company, the insurance report recording the transaction as a sale.

The district attorney said the action of the defendants had not constituted a crime under the broad meaning of forgery. He said he did not request the court to dismiss the charge of misdemeanor pending against Grannis. Justice Blanchard reserved decision.

MEANS A NEW DEPOT

Louisville Will Indirectly Profit by Reason of Big Fire.

Louisville, Ky., March 19.—By the destruction here last night at a loss of $400,000 of the union depot, the local terminal for five of the country's chief railroads, Louisville will probably benefit by a new union station. This was decided by the Commercial club half an hour after the building at Seventh street and the Ohio river was a mass of smoking embers and debris.

Crossed wires in the attic of the big structure, which was erected by the Illinois Central in 1890, are charged with the responsibility for the blaze which had made an empty shell of the depot before the entire fire department of the city, which was called, had arrived. The building was valued at $900,000. Only the walls are left standing. A railroad coach is being used as a ticket office today.

He Had No Delusions.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 19.—David Sparks, a photographer, sixty-eight years old, committed suicide in a doorway of a local studio because he was despondent and out of work. He left a note saying he had no home and that there was no need of an inquest; that it was "a clear case of poisoning" and he committed the act "with no delusions."

PASTOR TO TALK ON GAMBLING

Rev. Abberley Will Deal a Few Hot

Sunday Evening

COLD DECK PARLOR PLAYING

It is Understood he Will "Root" a Little on Sunday Base Ball in Indiana.

Gambling is an ancient vice and probably like drinking never will be entirely suppressed. The Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Egyptians gambled, and the evil existed to such an extent among the Romans that legislation was found necessary. In the Golden Age of Pericles, the evil existed throughout the Grecian federation. The present is like the past and it is well known that the Chinese from the emperor to the coolie are a nation of gamblers.

A traveler on the Persian Gulf relates that the Mohammedan pilgrims on the way to Mecca divided the day between two things—prayers and games. The followers of the false prophet in Constantinople will stop the game to pray and then divide after prayers and divide the stakes.

Rev. R. W. Abberley has a big subject to deal with next Sunday night when he talks on "Games and True Sports." No doubt he will deal with the Christian attitude and point the difference between games of chance and games of skill. Will he touch on Sunday base ball and Governor Marshall's attitude? There is ample room in this subject to "point a moral and adorn a tale."

AMUSEMENTS

The subjects to be shown at the Vaudet tonight are "Winter Sport at Mortez" and "Mr. Soaker at the Seaside." The talking picture, "The Road to the Ruin" will be given. The popular matinees will be given tomorrow afternoon. Miss Clara Gregg will sing "Moontime."

"The Roue's Heart" and "The Wooden Leg" are the titles of the subjects to be shown at the Grand theater tonight. The first subject presents a romance of a blind sculptor. The second picture is comic. Stephens and Bordeau will appear in a comedy "skit," entitled "Getting a Husband." Miss Iva Brown will sing "Somebody Misses You Everyday." No extra charges for the vaudeville attraction.

Many new novel features are promised in the Yankee Doodle comedy, "The King of Tramps" which will be at the Grand theater Wednesday night, March 24. The company is headed by the well known comedian, Oscar O'Shea, who is supported by a cast of well known players, including the little singer and dancer, Clyde Long, who has been especially engaged to introduce his latest and most novel specialty, "The Scarecrow" so familiar to the little folks who have read of the wonderful adventures of the "Tin Woodman" and "The Scarecrow" in the beautiful story book of "The Wizard of Oz," "The Scarecrow Dance" as done by Mr. Long is pronounced by press and public as being in a class by itself.

CHAUTAUQUA FOR THIS YEAR

Orlando Randall, County Superintendent, Asks For Co-Operation of Public.

HELP PROMISED BY TEACHERS

Quick Action Necessary to Enable Management to Secure Good Talent.

Mr. Orlando Randall, county superintendent of schools, with the assistance of the teachers of the county, have decided to start a movement for a Chautauqua this year if they meet with the proper encouragement from the public and guarantee funds from other sources.

The previous Chautauquas held in Rushville have been combined with the Teachers' Institute. For this reason it seems to fall upon Mr. Randall to take the initiative in having another Chautauqua.

Holding Chautauquas in this country has not been financially a paying investment, but no one can measure the influence for good it has had upon our people. Last year the Chautauqua cost fifteen hundred and thirty dollars. With an almost ideal week and with all conditions favorable there was only seventeen dollars more than expenses. Mr. Randall is sure no one will expect him to stand good for so much money for their enjoyment, without doing their part.

Mr. Randall will have the help of the leading citizens of Rushville in selecting the talent for the Chautauqua and will assure you that they will equal the excellent standard set in our previous Chautauquas.

What Mr. Randall desires the people to do is when the teachers or others present the matter of a Chautauqua for your consideration, give them your name and address and state how many tickets you will purchase, if we have a Chautauqua.

If enough tickets and other guarantee funds promised should amount to fourteen hundred dollars we will have a Chautauqua.

Nearly all the teachers have promised to help. This will divide the work over the county so there will be no great burden upon any section.

What is to be done must be done quickly in order to get the best talent. If this amount, fourteen hundred dollars, can be guaranteed by April 20, we will have a Chautauqua; otherwise the matter will be dropped so far as the teachers and Mr. Randall are concerned.

ATTENTION!

Will positively remain but a short time longer.

KILLED BY A LODGE.

(Connersville News.)

Men plowing today on the J. H. Fearis farm, southeast of the city, came upon an elongated box buried just below the surface. The men promptly scented a tragedy or crime and very properly notified the owner of the farm. Mr. Fearis and five other men visited the scene, this afternoon, prepared for anything that might be revealed. The box was lifted to the surface and opened, when the fairly well preserved remains of a william goat were revealed. Coroner Spicely was not called.

WE ARE GOING TO MOVE

Not so much because we need a larger building, but because we need a better one. Pianos are heavy and the building we now occupy is old. Our business has grown to such proportions that we are handicapped with our present facilities, and must acquire a building of sufficient size and strength to carry double our present stock. Fortunately our lease soon expires. We have already given architects instructions to design for us a building that will be as nearly perfect as money and skill will provide. The following item which appeared in the Indianapolis News, tells the story briefly: "THE WULSCHNER-STEWART MUSIC COMPANY has closed a contract with JOHN H. HOLIDAY by which Mr. Holiday will erect a building at 229-231 North Pennsylvania Street, just one square north of its present location and opposite the east entrance of the Post Office, now occupied by the Hoosier Kitchen, to be taken on a long time lease by the Music Company. It will be four stories high, and of white enameled terra cotta with elaborate trimmings and a modern front of beautiful pattern. Plans are now being prepared in detail. Green iron trimmings and a canopy over the entrance will be features of the building, which will cover the entire lot thirty-seven feet wide, and hundred twenty-five feet deep. THE WULSCHNER-STEWART COMPANY is now located in the Exchange Block, 128-130 North Pennsylvania street and will move into its new building as soon as it is completed.

SQUARE PIANOS, Worth From $40 to $150, now $5 to $67.

natched nervously at the band of his overalls, while Necia answered:

"That's all right, Poleon." Then, without warning, her face froze with mingled repulsion and wonder. "Look, look!" she whispered, pointing past him.

Runnion was moving slowly, crawling painfully into a sitting posture, up-lifting a terribly mutilated face, dazed and half conscious, groping for possession of his wits. He saw them and grimaced frightfully, cowering and cringing.

Poleon felt the girl's hand upon his arm and heard her crying in a harsh, sharp voice:

"He needs killing! Put him away!"

He stared down at his gentle Necia and saw the loathing in her face and the look of strange ferocity as she met his eyes boldly.

"You don't know what he—what he did," she said through her shut teeth. "He—" But the man waited to hear no more.

Runnion saw him coming and scrambled frantically to all fours, then got on his feet and staggered down the bar. As Poleon overtook him he cried out piteously, a shrill scream of terror, and, falling to his knees, groveled and debased himself like a foul cripple at fear of the lash. His agony dispelled the savage taint of Alluna's aboriginal training in Necia, and the pure white blood of her ancestors cried out:

"Poleon, Poleon—not that!" She hurried after him to where he paused above the wretch waiting for her. "You mustn't!" she said. "That would be murder, and—and—it's all over now."

The Frenchman looked at her wonderingly, not comprehending this sudden leniency.

"Let him alone. You've nearly killed him. That's enough." Whereat Runnion, broken in body and spirit, began to beg for his life.

"What's dat you say jus' now?" Doret asked the girl. "Was dat de truth for sure w'at you speak?"

"Yes, but you've done your work. Don't touch him again."

He hesitated, and Runnion, quick to observe it, added his entreaty to hers.

"I'm beaten, Doret. You broke me to pieces. I need help—I'm hurt."

"W'at you 'spec' I do wit' 'im?" the Canadian asked, and she answered:

"I suppose we'll have to take him where he can get assistance."

"Dat skiff ain' carry all 'tree of us."

"I'll stay here," groaned the frightened man. "I'll wait for a steamer to pick me up, but for God's sake don't touch me again!"

Poleon looked him over carefully and made up his mind that the man was more injured in spirit than in body, for outside of his battered muscles he showed no fatal symptoms. Although the voyageur was slower to anger than a child, a grudge never died in him, and his simple, self taught creed knew no forgiveness for such men as Runnion, cherishing no mercy for preying men or beasts. He glanced toward the wooded shores a stone's throw above, then back at the coward he had beaten and whose life was forfeit under the code. There was a queer light in his eyes.

"Leave him here, Poleon. We'll go away, you and I, in the canoe, and the first boat will pick him up. Come," Necia tugged at his wrist for fear she might not prevail, but he was bent on brushing away a handful of hungry mosquitoes which, warned by the growing day, had ventured out on the river. His face became wrinkled and set.

"Bien!" he grunted. "We lef' 'im here because dere ain't 'nough room in de batteau, eh? All right. Dat's good t'ing. But he's seek man, so mebbe I fees it him nice place for stop till den boats come."

"Yes, yes. Leave me here. I'll make it through all right," begged Runnion.

"Better you camp yonder on de point, w'ere you can see dose steamboat w'en she comes roun' de ben'. Dis is bad place." He indicated the thicket, a quarter of a mile above which ran out almost to the cut bank. "Come. I help you get feex."

Runnion shrank from his proffered assistance half fearfully, but, reassured, allowed the Frenchman to help him toward the shore.

"We tell it de first boat 'bout you an' dey pick you up. You walt he, Necia."

The girl watched her rescuer guide Runnion up to the level of the woods, then disappear with him in the trees and was relieved to see the two emerge upon the river bank again farther on, for she had feared for an instant that Poleon might forget. There seemed to be no danger, however, for he was crashing through the brush in advance of the other, who followed laboriously. Once Runnion gained the high point he would be able to command a view of both reaches of the river and could make signals to attract the first steamboat that chanced to come along. Without doubt a craft of some sort would pass from one direction or the other by tomorrow at latest, or, if not, she and Poleon could send back succor to him from the first habitation they encountered. The two men disappeared again, and her fears had begun to prey on her a second time when she beheld the big Canadian returning. He was hurrying a bit, apparently to be rid of the mosquitoes that swarmed about him, and she marked that, in addition to whipping himself with a handful of blackberries, he wore Runnion's coat to protect his shoulders.

"Woof! Dose skeeter bug is hungry," he cried.

"Dis nice batteau," Poleon remarked critically; "I mak' it go fas'," and began to row swiftly, seeking the breeze of the open river in which to shake off the horde of stinging pests that had risen with the sun. "I come way queek wit' t'inkin' 'bout gun or skeeter net or not'in'. Runnion she's len' me dis coat, so mebbe I don't look so worse lak I do jus' now, eh?"

"How did you leave him? Is he badly injured?"

"No; I bus' it up on de face an' de rib, but she's feelin' good now. Yes, I'm leave 'im nice place for stop an' wait on de steamboat—plaintain spruce bough for set on."

She began to shudder again, and, sensitive to her every motion, he asked solicitously if she were sick, but she shook her head.

"I—I—was thinking what—supposing you hadn't come! Oh, Poleon, you don't know what you saved me from." She leaned forward and laid a tiny, grateful hand on the huge brown paw that rested on his ear. "I wonder if I can ever forget!"

She noted that they were running with the current and inquired:

"Where are we going?"

"Waal, I can't pull dis boat 'gainst currant, so I guess we pass on till I fin' my shirt, den bimeby we pick it up some steamboat an' go home."

Five miles below his quick eye detected his half submerged "bark" lodged beneath some overhanging firs which from the water's action had fallen forward into the stream, and by rare good fortune it was still upright, although awash. He towed it to the next sand bar, where he wrung out and donned his shirt, then tipped the water from the smaller craft and, making it fast astern of the Peterborough, set out once more. Toward noon they came in sight of a little stern wheeled craft that puffed and pattered manfully against the sweeping current, hiding behind the points and bars and following the slackest water.

"It's the mission boat!" cried Necia. "It's the mission boat! Father Barnum will be aboard."

She waved her arms madly and mingled her voice with Poleon's until a black robed figure appeared beside the pilothouse.

"Father Barnum!" she screamed, and, recognizing her, he signaled back.

Soon they were alongside, and a pair of Siwash deck hands lifted Necia aboard, Poleon following after, the painter of the Peterborough in his teeth. He dragged both canoes out of the boiling tide and laid them bottom up on the forward deck, then climbed the narrow little stairs to find Necia in the arms of a benignant white haired priest, the best beloved man on the Yukon, who broke away from the girl to greet the Frenchman, his kind face alight with astonishment.

"What is all this I hear? Slowly, Doret, slowly! My little girl is talking too furiously for these poor old wits to follow. I can't understand. I am amazed. What is this tale?"

Together they told him, while his blue eyes now opened wide with wonder, now grew soft with pity, then blazed with indignation. When they had finished he laid his hand upon Doret's shoulder.

Lesson XII.—First Quarter, For March 21, 1909.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, a Comprehensive Quarterly Review — Golden Text, Acts viii, 4—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

LESSON I.—Acts 1, 1-14, the ascension of our Lord. Golden Text, Luke xxiv, 51, "It came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them and carried up into heaven." During the forty days, in which He appeared to the disciples only, at least ten times He spoke of the kingdom of God and commanded them to wait till they should have received the Spirit, that they might by His power go forth and bear witness unto Him in all the world.

LESSON II.—The descent of the Holy Spirit, Acts ii, 1-21. Golden Text, John xiv, 16, 17, "I will pray the Father, and He will give you another comforter, that He may abide with you forever, even the Spirit of Truth." According to the type in Lev. xxii, just fifty days after the resurrection of Christ the new first fruits began to be gathered, the human instrument being Peter, but the power the Holy Spirit, who came as predicted by Joel, but also promised by Jesus Christ Himself.

LESSON III.—The beginnings of the Christian church, Acts ii, 22-47. Golden Text, Acts ii, 42, "They continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship and in breaking of bread and in prayers." By the Spirit of God, through the word of God, Simon Peter so preached Jesus Christ crucified and risen again as Israel's Messiah, the Son of David, that 3,000 received Him as their Saviour and Lord, put all their possessions into a common fund.

LESSON IV.—The lame man healed, Acts iii, 1-26. Golden Text, Acts iii, 16, "His name through faith in His name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know." The risen and ascended Christ wrought through Peter and John in the healing of the man who had been lame from his birth, and this striking object lesson gave Peter another opportunity to proclaim Jesus Christ crucified and risen again, as the one whom Moses and all the prophets had foretold as the seed of Abraham.

LESSON V.—The trial of Peter and John, Acts iv, 1-31. Golden Text, Acts iv, 31, "They were all filled with the

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

The doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with noxious gases and waste matter which naturally accumulates and which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments cause chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has fatal results.

We have a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are very pleasant to take, they act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect, and they may be taken at any time without any inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and cure constipation and all similar ailments, whether acute or chronic. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets, 25c, and 12 tablets, 10c. Lytle's Drug Store, Third and Main St.

IS INDIANA'S GREATEST SIRE

The Patchen Boy, Three Year Old, Record 2:10 1/4 and Greatest Race Colt in the World.

MAKES STAND AT FAIRGROUND

Led all Hoosier Stallions in the Matter of Producing Racing Material in 1908.

The only stallion in Indiana to sire six race record performers in 1909 stands to the credit of Rushville and helps to establish more firmly Rush county as the great breeding county of a State that has acquired National prominence in the breeding world and is now second to none in the breeding of fast trotters and pacers.

The Patchen Boy, (3) 2:10 1/4, owned by Dick Wilson & Son, Rushville, is the stallion to acquire this proud and much envied position. Many of the best and greatest stallions in the country are owned in Indiana and have a home stallion lead them all in siring true and proven race horses is glory not only for his owner but for the city and county.

This son of Wilkes Boy, 2:24 1/4, has been gained in prominence ever since he came into the possession of that astute and clever horseman Dick Wilson and it was only a question of time—that time when his produce would be old enough to go to the races that he would lead all the stallions as a sire of race horses.

Until he passed into possession of the Rushville man The Patchen Boy never had an opportunity in the stud and to have become the leader in such remarkably short space of time is indeed a triumph that could only be secured by great intrinsic merit. The earliest foals of The Patchen Boy proclaimed the fact to horsemen that in a short time they would be winning money in genuine contests. And now it is a proven fact.

The colts by The Patchen Boy have natural speed and great beauty. Those are desirable qualities. But real horse ability is the true test of the successful sire of today. To secure records when the money was up stumps The Patchen Boy colts as the genuine and that was what happened the past season and will happen again this season and for successive seasons to come.

Why? Because the breeders of the country have patronized The Patchen Boy more and more each successive year until now he is the sire of a fair number of colts and this number will constantly increase. These colts are the real race horses for time records—tin cup performances have never figured among them nor among his predecessors in the blood that resulted in this great young sire.

The Patchen Boy is bred in the best of speed producing lines being by that great family founder Wilkes Boy, 2:24 1/4, and out of Lady Clay (dam of three) by Metropolitan, son of Hambletonian. His second dam was Haggis Brown by Ashland Clay and his third dam was the thoroughbred mare Pitty Pat, giving him that most desired thoroughbred cross just where it would do the most good.

He was the most sensational colt race horse that ever went down the Grand Circuit, winning six straight races and $6500. He did not dodge and was always in the first flight. With such breeding and demonstrated individual merit there was never any question but that he would make a great sire, as great a sire as he was a race horse and that was superlative.

Holding the 1908 record for Indiana sires with six with race records in 1909 he will still further add to his glory and to that of Indiana as a great breeding State by putting from 15 to 20 in the list and each and every one will be race records. Without question The Patchen Boy is destined to be the leading sire in the United States as he was the past year in his home State.

Among those of his get that have shown trials are Francis J., 2:09, Evelyn Patchen, 2:10, Jerry Patchen, 2:08 1/4, Scott Patchen, 2:10, Lady Patchen, 2:10 1/2, Ebony, 2:12 1/2, Alex Williams, 2:12 1/2, Lois Patchen, 2:11 1/2, Swift Patchen, 2:14 1/4, Knightstown Belle, 2:10 1/2, Dossie Patchen, 2:09 3/4, and many others.

A great many of these trials were in actual races where they forced the winner to fast records so that there is no question but that many of these will take faster records this year.

With so many hovering around the 2:10 mark there is no doubt but that in a little while he will be the leading sire of 2:10 performers for it must be remembered that the records of his colts were made in races on half mile tracks and when these strike the big rings they will go well into the charmed circle.

One feature of The Patchen Boy colts that would attract the attention of horsemen, entirely aside from their speed, is their great beauty. They are noted for their size, magnificent conformation, upheadedness and purity of their gait whether at the trot or the pace. They take after their sire in this respect and they also have his good head, wide between the eyes indicating brains and intelligence and this is what makes them such remarkably good drivers whether on the race track or on the road. In fact several of his fastest colts have been kept off the track merely because they have fallen into hands of wealthy gentlemen who enjoy driving them so much that they are loath to allow them to go to the races.
